Consultant, Digital Learning

We are seeking a qualified and exceptional learning and development specialist, experienced in developing online and blended learning solutions.

Melbourne Business School (MBS) is renowned throughout the Asia Pacific as a leader in management education and executive development. Over the past six decades, we have built an outstanding reputation for program excellence, a high-quality learning experience and the capacity to prepare managers, leaders and organisations for the challenges of a global future.

- Inner city fringe location
- Work with large, reputable clients across Asia-Pacific
- Highly collaborative and customer-focused Digital Learning team

The Opportunity
Join a future-focused digital learning team who are passionate and dedicated to creating flexible and lifelong learning experiences for the MBS community. The Consultant, Digital Learning is responsible for developing outstanding online and blended learning experiences and expanding digital learning opportunities for MBS. As part of a collaborative and nimble team, the role focuses on growing the School’s digital learning practice and articulating that offer to customers.

As the Consultant, Digital Learning your impact will be seen by:
- Creating outstanding online and blended learning experiences to ensure outstanding outcomes, learning transfer and client satisfaction
- Growing the profile of the School’s ability to create flexible and accessible learning experiences
- Supporting the creation of learning solution concepts and architectures for client discussions, proposals and tenders
- Enable the practice of digital learning at the School, acting as a change agent, constantly pushing the boundaries of what’s possible within a learning environment
- Expanding digital learning opportunities for MBS by supporting the growth of future-focused strategic partnerships
- Drive the implementation of key digital learning initiatives within the School

About you
You have a background in learning and development and are experienced in implementing online or blended development experiences to busy, high performing professionals. You hold an understanding of practical applications of adult learning principles, how to consult with multiple business stakeholders and maintain a passion for technology.

Passionate about being at the forefront of change, you’re ready to help our organisation expand its digital offer and enable School stakeholders to deliver meaningful value to clients. You’re collaborative and enjoy working in an innovative, knowledge rich environment. A problem solver by nature, you want to join a team that values the kind of people who reimagine the possible for MBS clients and stakeholders. Most importantly, you act with integrity and show care for the people you work with. Please refer to the position description for more selection criteria detail.

What’s on offer
- A challenging and rewarding role with the leading Business School in Australia.
- Competitive remuneration package.
- Employee benefits include subsidised School gym; Health and Wellbeing programs; year-round social events; NFP salary packaging; and access to world class learning and development programs
