

Technical Advisor

Nossal Institute for Global Health

Overview

Nossal Institute for Global Health at the University of Melbourne is looking for a Technical Advisor committed to gender equality and social inclusion to join our Inclusive Resilience project team.

Inclusive Resilience allows communities to efficiently respond to and recover from the impact of disasters or hazards. Resilient communities are able to minimize the impact of disasters, preserve their communities and save lives.

About the Role

You will be part of a team working to strengthen resilience, based on integrating infrastructure, energy and health systems, with a focus on gender equality and social inclusion. This is an opportunity to work with, and learn from, key stakeholders and communities in developing countries and contribute to the creation and sharing of knowledge

You will have the ability to

- analyze data
- prepare, review and present proposal and research reports
- monitor and evaluate project progress
- engage respectfully with in-country communities

This opportunity suited to someone with experience in international development, ideally in the infrastructure and health systems.

This a part-time position at 0.6 FTE for an initial 12-month contract; based in Melbourne with hybrid working arrangements.

Remuneration

$86,760 base salary + 10% superannuation per annum to be paid at 0.6 FTE; as well as access to not-for-profit sector salary packaging.

How to Apply

Further details can be obtained from the attached Position Description or by contacting Reihana Mohideen (reihana.mohideen@unimelb.edu.au).
